Tips for riding your bicycle safely

- * Always wear a correctly fitted, Australian Standard approved bike helmet.
- * Obey traffic lights and signs.
- * Ride on the left side of the road.
- * Give hand signals to turn left or right.
- * Give way to pedestrians and other vehicles when entering and crossing a road.
- * You must use the bike lane where one is available.
- * When using a footpath or shared pedestrian/bicycle path, keep to the left and give way to pedestrians.
- * You must not be towed by another vehicle.
- * Maintain control of your bike at all times. It's an offence to ride with both hands off the handlebars, feet off the pedals or to carry anything which prevents you from having control.

Cyclists also have some special rights, which include:

- * Riding two abreast, no more than 1.5 m apart.
- * Travelling to the front of a line of traffic on the left hand side of the stopped vehicles.
- * Travelling in Bus Lanes and Transit Lanes. However, cyclists cannot travel in Bus Only Lanes.
- * Travelling on the footpath where indicated by signage.
- * Cycling on the footpath if the cyclist is less than 12 years old. An adult, who is riding in a supervisory capacity of a cyclist less than 12 years old, may also ride with the young cyclist on the footpath.
- * Turning right from the left hand lane of a multi-lane roundabout with the proviso the cyclists must give way to exiting traffic.

What gear do you need?

A bike

Make sure your bike is the right size for you. Your bike must be roadworthy with working brakes and a warning device such as a bell. At night or when visibility is poor, your bike must display a white light (steady or flashing) on the front and a red light (steady or flashing) to the rear. The bike must also have a red reflector to the rear.

A helmet

It is compulsory to wear a correctly fitted, approved helmet when cycling. An approved helmet is marked with an Australian Standards sticker. The helmet must fit firmly and comfortably to protect you against head injury. Make sure you choose one that is lightweight and a bright colour so other road users can see you.

The right clothing

To make it easier for other road users to see you, wear bright clothing during the day and reflective clothing at night. Also wear covered in shoes to protect your feet.
